ABOUT THE TEST

The Ontario Secondary School Literacy Test (OSSLT) was administered in February 2002 under the auspices of the province's Education Quality and Accountability Office (EQAO). The OSSLT is designed to assess the reading and writing skills that students are expected to have learned across all subjects by the end of grade 9, as outlined in The Ontario Curriculum. In the reading section, students read a number of short selections and responded to multiple-choice questions, short answer questions, and questions requiring an explanation. In the writing portion, students wrote a summary, an information paragraph, a news report and a series of paragraphs supporting an opinion. Students must pass both the reading and writing components to successfully complete the test. Successful completion of the OSSLT is a graduation requirement for the Ontario Secondary School Diploma (OSSD).

^a Meeting the standard, or being successful on the literacy test, means that students' work shows that most of the time, they can communicate ideas in writing clearly and without errors in punctuation, spelling, grammar and organization that prevent someone from understanding their writing. In reading, students' work shows that most of the time, they can read and understand information in various formats.
